Admire art at When The Ground Was

In this solo exhibition at Carbon.12, we're told that artist Sarah Almehairi takes the viewer 'along for a walk' – meeting visual pathfinders and revisiting trails she's taken. The work ranges from concrete sculptures to work on paper and canvas in a range of colour and shades. The idea is to demonstrate that no path is the same, however many times it is trodden. It shuts on November 1, so get in quick.
